Schwedler Norway Maples (stand of 2 trees)

These two deciduous trees are notable figures in the neighborhood. They provide a dense shaded canopy in the summer and a year-round wildlife refuge for local birds, squirrels and other small wildlife. In 1947 Edward Williams bought the 0.6 acre property for $10 and built the house on the property. These two trees were planted on the property in memory of the Williams' Iowa origins.

The Schwedler Norway Maple species is a fast-growing variety of the Norway Maple. The species typically reaches a height of 35 to 50 feet with a 25 to 30 foot upright, round canopy that can extend to 50 feet.

These two Schwedler Norway Maples are nominated and approved under the Heritage Tree category of specimen.
